

Every year brings potential problems: pressure from western bean cutworm in corn, sudden death syndrome in soybean, drought stress, you name it! Pioneer sales professionals are backed by hundreds of scientists and hands-on local agronomy experts.

They help find the right combination of genes, traits and practices to overcome all the obstacles. Using state-of-the-art tools like the Pioneer FIT[®] mapping system, Pioneer representatives factor in each grower's needs for genetic stress tolerance, insect protection traits, weed management and — ultimately — yield.
