

The Evolution of Waterhemp

treated with glyphosate

The weeds have evolved. Now it's your turn.

Glyphosate just isn't working like it used to on tough weeds like Palmer pigweed, waterhemp and ragweed. Fortunately, there's Prefix®, a pre-emergence herbicide that gives you up to five weeks of residual protection against even the toughest broadleaf weeds and grasses. That means you have early season yield protection and a wider window for a post-emergence glyphosate application. It's time to evolve to Prefix. For more information call your retailer or visit prefix-herbicide.com.

