Visit the Oxbo booth at the NY Farm Show in the Cargill Dairy Building. All Avalanche models will be on display.

Since their introduction, Avalanche mergers have been designed and manufactured by Oxbo International Corporation and marketed as part of the Miller Pro hay & forage line.

Now, Avalanche mergers are designed, built and marketed entirely by Oxbo from facilities in Wisconsin and New York — sold and serviced exclusively by authorized Oxbo Avalanche dealers.

Dairy quality hay

Avalanche mergers help dairy producers and custom operators harvest better quality hay or haylage. Increased productivity and harvest speed gets the crop out of the field faster.

Hay-in-a-day partner

Laying hay out flat for faster drying has become a popular practice. Avalanche mergers, especially the huge 310 or 310+ triple pickup models, are ideal for picking up the laid-out hay and gently moving it into large windrows. These models feature 30' or 34' of continuous pickup and can go any direction in the field, and do not have to stay on the swath.

Avalanche mergers save harvester trips across the field, reduce field compaction, and are much less likely to move a rock into the windrow compared to raking.
