

Operating loans to help you grow your business, season after season.

There are some big questions looming out there. Will the wild volatility in prices that marked 2008 continue? Can I count on a market price that will cover the increasing costs of inputs? Will I have access to steady, reliable credit during these uncertain times? We can't answer those first two questions, but if you're looking for a steady, dependable lender for your farming operation, look to Farm Credit Services of Mid-America. Our doors are open for your credit needs, be it a seasonal operating loan, or multi-year line of credit. Right now, interest rates are much lower than they were a year ago, and our knowledgeable, helpful people are ready to customize loans, leases or crop insurance that fit your operation. Give us a call.
