How Can Thirty Plus Benefit Your Hay?

- No more waiting on the weather, bale when you're ready at moistures up to 30%
- Bale at higher moistures without worry of heating or mold damage
- Hay treated with Thirty Plus is greener and higher in feed value
- When compared to dry preservatives and inoculants, Thirty Plus is easier to apply, gives more consistent coverage and won't clog application equipment.
- Works well on all types of hay
- Non-corrosive buffered formula won't harm expensive baling equipment, the user or livestock
- Thirty Plus treated hay can be stored for years and will look and feed as well as when it was first baled
- O.K. to store outside. Thirty Plus won't freeze and won't lose effectiveness over time

Your CaseIH dealer has everything you need to wrap and tie your bales

Natural Twine

Assuring premium quality bales begins with Case IH natural twine. Unlike lesser quality natural twine, Case IH uses only the best sisal material available on the market today. Uniform thickness and strength throughout the entire bale means there will be fewer tying problems. Tie all your baling basics together with Case IH natural twine

Plastic Twine

Case IH plastic twine is a popular choice, thanks to its ability to secure good, tight bales and its uniformity and strength throughout the entire ball. Case IH plastic twine will work with any properly adjusted twine baler and is available in a variety of strengths for different size bales.

Mesh Wrap

White mesh wrap is a light, easier to use and cost-effective alternative to twine. Mesh wrap covers your bales from edge to edge to help hold their shape. In addition, it does a top-notch job of helping to keep your bales packed tightly together during the critical stages of transport and stacking.
